TODAY'S CREATION MOMENT

EVIDENCE FOR EVOLUTION CAN BE ILLOGICAL

In a previous Creation Moments broadcast, we looked at why chimps and humans have similar features, and showed that it is because they have a common designer. Evolutionists use the similarities between organisms to suggest proof of descent from common ancestors. This is illogical. Let me explain a little logic. Suppose I use this syllogism:

If it is raining, the streets are wet. It is raining. Therefore, the streets are wet.

We would know that this is logical. But suppose I said it differently: If it is raining, the streets are wet. The streets are wet. Therefore, it is raining.

We know that this is illogical, because there are other reasons why the streets may be wet.

Evolutionists claim:

If evolution were true, we would expect animals to have similarities. Animals have similarities. Therefore, evolution is true.

This set of statements is equally illogical as saying that it is raining, because the streets are wet. It is actually a well-known logical fallacy, known as the Affirmation of the Consequent. Yet many high school biology textbooks rely on this illogical set of statements as their so-called evidence for evolution. The better explanation is the true explanation – that animals have similarities because they have a common designer – God.

Prayer:

Everything You have told us, Father, makes sense and is true.
Thank You for placing us in this beautiful world that You have made.

The Veneer

How is your veneer? My dictionary describes veneer as a thin layer applied to cover something inferior with an attractive or superficial appearance. I believe we all cover ourselves with a veneer. How thick is yours and how impervious a covering? I have my own overlays, one of which is my trying to never curse anymore in my life. With The Lord's help, I have gone from every other word out of my mouth being foul to, I thought, never using such language again. But, I have found, it is a veneer.

What could break your stance with that? Perhaps someone cutting you off in traffic or hitting your thumb with the hammer? How about the bike not starting? There are a thousand examples that could be instantly thrown your way and scratch or break that veneer; that veneer of respectability and of Godliness.

I used to think how easy life would be in a Monastery. How little the amount of temptations, but if not for learning that is just hiding, not necessarily growing and improving. We all know the stories of the Sunday Christians, all pious in church but when they get out, reverting to act just as the unsaved world around them.

I guess, and the reason for this rambling, the veneer is a good start but not the end of where we want to go and the only way I see to replace a veneer to a more permanent lifestyle is to be saturated with what you need and wish to change within you. Reading and studying the Bible till it permeates your soul, changing your very nature, and changing you from within.

You've all heard the saying, "You are what you eat". Well, you are too what you read, study and dwell on.

Always looking up,
Gt
